1. Need Free Books for Your School?

REGISTER NOW AT www.firstbook.org/register to access free new books through the Book Donation Campaign. The Campaign is a multi-year effort of the U.S. Department of Education, First Book and a host of major U.S. book publishing companies to promote literacy and supply books to children in need. In support of the Campaign, First Book secures publisher donations and identifies the recipient groups, while the U.S. Department of Education warehouses and ships books free-of-charge from its national distribution center.

THE 2008 SUMMER READING INITIATIVE announces the latest national distribution in the Book Donation Campaign where over 850,000 free, new Random House children's books will reach schools, libraries and literacy organizations serving low-income youth across the country. Of the 850,000 books being distributed, 550,000 are currently being shipped to recipient groups serving young people during the summer months, with an additional 300,000 books to be distributed during the fall of 2008.

Under Secretary Margaret Spellings' leadership, the U.S. Department of Education, First Book and major book publishers have collaborated to distribute nearly 3 million new books to schools, libraries and literacy organizations serving low-income youth across the country.

First Book provides new books to children in need, addressing one of the most important factors affecting literacy - access to books. First Book has distributed more than 60 million books in thousands of communities.
